

BRITISH OFFICERS IN ULSTER RESIGN FROM THE SERVICE

TROOPS AND OFFICERS BACK-WARD IN TAKING OFFENSIVE IN IRISH PROVINCE.

ENGLISH GOVERNMENT PERTURBED

Great Activity Evident at Palace and War Department—Rumor Says the Troops Mutiny in Belfast.

(By Associated Press.)
London, Mch. 21.—The utmost activity is evident in the war and other departments of the English government, caused by the grave situation in Ulster. All secretaries of government departments of the English government therefore have cancelled their week end trips to the country.
King George summoned Col. Nooly, secretary of war, to Buckingham palace early today. First Lord of the Admiralty and held a secret conference in the war office and later issued a statement confirming the reported resignation of some of the English army officers serving in Ireland. It is rumored that many more in the south of Ireland will resign if ordered to Ulster.

In hopes of preventing outbreaks, the police of Ireland have been ordered not to seize unlicensed firearms until further notice.

Belfast, Ire., Mch. 21.—Ulster this morning presents a martial aspect.
All the towns are occupied by soldiers of the regular army and others are marching through the country roads with long trains of baggage and ammunition carts being taken to the garrisons.

Martial Aspect in Ulster.

There is great animation among the Unionist Volunteers and intense excitement prevails throughout the provinces.

Sir Edward Carson, Unionist leader, is counselling his following not to make any provocative acts. Drug stores are laying in large supplies of surgical and medical equipment, in anticipation of trouble.

Troops Dissatisfied.

(By Associated Press.)
London, Mch. 21.—The feature of the late news from Ireland was the dissatisfaction among the officers of the regular army under orders to proceed to Ulster with their regiments.
The number of resignations is problematical but declared to be considerable. The English army is short of commissioned officers already and the number of vacancies is increasing. It is very probable that the regulars now serving in Ulster may be withdrawn and they will be replaced by fresh troops, as both men and officers there have expressed a disinclination to assume the offensive. This momentary shifting of the immediate crisis from Ulster to the army may give the peacemakers the desired opening and conditions may be cleared up without bloodshed.

The Pall Mall Gazette this morning says that two companies of the Dor-setshire regiment, stationed at Belfast, have mutinied.

London, March 21.—The government began to dispose its regular troops in Ireland so that they may be in a position to deal with any situation that arises. The cooler men among the loyalists and the Ulster Unionists, however, believe that nothing resembling war is yet in sight.
"War in Ulster" is the headline in sensational London newspapers are displaying in the blackest type.

The army council some time ago considered the possibilities of home rule strife and instructed Lieut. Gen.
Sir Arthur Henry Fitzroy Padgett, who commands the Irish garrisons, to take all necessary precautions to maintain order and safeguard property. A general redistribution of the forces in Ireland therefore was begun.

Move Troops From Friends.

Two regiments were sent from the south to reinforce the Ulster garrisons, while the troops in Ulster were moved to new stations in conformity with the custom that in the event of hostilities or rioting soldiers should not be compelled to encounter people with whom they had formed friendships. In pursue with the same rule some Irish recruits were sent from the Armagh recruiting station to England.

The war office admitted it had heard rumors that 100 army officers of three famous cavalry regiments in the Curragh camp have resigned rather than serve in Ulster. War Secretary Seely's secretary said appropriate measures would be taken to deal with the situation.

Cabinet Summoned Hurriedly.
A conference of ministers, urgently summoned, met at Colonel Seely's resi-

WEATHER FORECAST

colder tonight and probably to-morrow.

Sunrise 6:02 a. m. Sunset 6:15
p. m.

The following report of high and low temperatures and precipitation is taken each morning at 7 o'clock and is for the preceding 24 hours:

|           | Max | Min. | Precip. |
|-----------|-----|------|---------|
| Monday    | 62  | 35   |         |
| Tuesday   | 53  | 30   |         |
| Wednesday | 48  | 18   |         |

dence and discussed the situation in Ireland. Those present included Premier Asquith, Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, and members of the war office staff.
After this conference Mr. Churchill summoned the first sea lord, Prince Louis of Battenberg, to Admiralty house at midnight for a further discussion of the situation.

John Redmond, the nationalist leader in parliament, telegraphed the nationalists in Belfast an urgent appeal to abandon a parade arranged for Sunday in Londonderry, which it was thought likely would result in rioting.
Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, and the members of the Ulster council invoked calmness on the part of the volunteers. Four cabinet ministers spoke of the Ulster situation at different meetings.

Cabinet Is Unyielding.

Thomas McKinnon Wood, secretary of state for Scotland, said: "We will carry home rule by agreement if we possibly can, but without it if we must."

Augustine Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, in his speech declared that the government's proposals gave Ulster freedom from coercion for six years and that the scheme of Andrew Bonar-Law, the leader of the opposition in parliament, meant immediate coercion if a referendum went against Ulster.

Sir John Allsebrook Simon, attorney general, said the government proposed to go steadily on, adding:
"Whatever happens we will see that law and order are unflinchingly observed in Ulster."

Carson Reaches Belfast.

Belfast, March 21.—Surprises and suppressed excitement crowded the entire day for the people of Belfast.
The dramatic entry into the city of Sir Edward Carson, the Unionist leader in Ulster, fresh from his defiance of the government in the house of commons, his greeting by Gen. George Fildarson, retired, commander of the Ulster volunteers, and a picked bodyguard, and a conference which followed with the Ulster leaders, furnished the excitement.

The complete shifting of the troops,
which was in progress throughout Ulster, and the arrival of reinforcements from the south furnished the surprises.

Motor cars with dispatch riders sent from Belfast Thursday to volunteer headquarters in all parts of Ulster returned. It is believed they carried orders arranging for a quick mobilization of the Orange forces if this should become necessary.

AMBOYITES AROUSED BY MANY ROBBERIES

A series of robberies have aroused the people of Amboy to an extent where determined and concerted action will soon be taken to apprehend the perpetrators of the acts. A number of stores have suffered, among them being the James Lynch saloon, where cigars and bottled liquors to the value of $60 were stolen, and the
was burglarized to the extent of $20.
Following the robbery of the creamery bloodhounds were secured and the trip of the thieves was followed to Shaws, where the robbers had broken the depot open and had later boarded a train.

JULIUS LLOYD IS ILL.

Julius Lloyd, maker of "Home Made Hash," who returned Monday from the south with his bride, was today taken to the hospital suffering from leakage of the heart. His condition is critical.

FAMOUS BRIDGE HAS MAGNETITE ARC LAMPS

The famous Eads' bridge across the Mississippi, connecting St. Louis and East St. Louis is now brilliantly lighted by inverted magnetite lamps the same as are in use in Dixon's ornamental lighting system. The lights are suspended from the trolley poles by brackets as is the case here. Another case of Dixon being a pioneer.

Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Read will go to Polo this evening to spend Sunday with friends.

DIXON NURSE DIES FROM PNEUMONIA

STONE, MINN., FORMERLY OF DIXON, DIED LAST NIGHT.

MORRISON TO HAVE NEW STREET LIGHTS

The Northern Illinois Utilities Co., through General Agent C. B. Yonts, has closed a contract with the city of Morrison for a new system of street lighting whereby that city will hereafter be lighted by 74-watt lamps instead of 40 watts at the same price as has been paid for the old ones. In addition the new lights, of which there will be 150 single lights and 5 3-light clusters, will be equipped with new radial reflectors giving about four times the light now being obtained from the lamps that are now in use.

The company has also promised to change the service there from alternating to direct current by October 1, and has made the city a proposition for pumping its water whereby, figuring on the present basis of cost of the pumping, the cost of new equipment, $8,000, can be saved in three years.

Morrison is also contemplating a boulevard lighting system.

PAINFULLY INJURED IN ACCI-DENT NEAR ELDENA TODAY.

ger train No. 19, southbound, struck a hand car midway between Eldena and Amboy at about 8:35 this morning, painfully injuring Reggie Smith, one of two section men who were on the car. The train, in charge of Conductor Mabey, was speeding between the two stations when the engineer whistled for the car. Smith and Foreman Wm. Running were on the car and made a determined effort to re-

Fortunately Running was unhurt and the train was not derailed. Smith was taken to the Amboy hospital.

POLICE DISCREDIT SUICIDE STORY HERE

LOCAL AUTHORITIES SAY THEY CAN FIND NO TRACE OF WAR-REN GIVEN COMING TO DIXON

Local authorities are of the opinion, formed after a thorough examination, that Warren W. Given, the DeKalb man for whom his mother was searching in this city, did not visit Dixon in January, as is believed by his mother, Mrs. Fannie Given, whose story was told exclusively in this paper last evening. The officers say they have looked into every possible clue in an effort to find a trace of the missing man, but have discovered nothing to indicate that he was in Dixon.

DAVID KELLEY IS DANGEROUSLY HURT

LINEMAN FOR I. N. U. AND WELL KNOWN DIXON MAN FALLS 25 FEET TO PAVEMENT.

ON HIS HEAD ON SIDEWALK

Concussion of Brain and Possible Skull Fracture Are Result of Accident—Outcome Not Known.

David Kelley, one of the linemen of the Illinois Northern Utilities Co., was critically injured at 11 o'clock this morning when he fell from a tree near the Illinois Central crossing at Seventh street, and he is now at the Dixon hospital suffering from a severe concussion of the brain and a possible fracture of the skull.

The injured man was trimming the limbs from the tree when he lost his footing and fell to a cement sidewalk 25 feet below, striking on his head. Three surgeons were summoned and a preliminary examination disclosed concussion of the brain and a possible fracture.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon Mr.
Kelley was still in a state of coma,
but the indications were more favorable.

Constitutionalist Headquarters at

"Torreon will be mine within one week," declared Gen. Pancho Villa today. Villa's army of 12,000 rebels sistance. There is much speculation as to the time the battle, expected to be a decisive one, will begin.

(By Russell Byers)
About 300 people, the largest crowd of the season, attended the N.
D. H. S. and D. H. S. championship basketball game at the Dixon high school gymnasium last evening. The game went to the south side five, but not without a good fight from the north side boys and an exciting contest. The game last night was the second of a series that was played to determine the city basketball championship, and the belt goes to South
Dixon in two straight contests.

Both teams played excellent ball last night and displayed the results of good training. There was considerable "roughing" however, and the fouls were common on both sides.

First Half.

When Referee Bailey blew the whistle to begin Wold started the half by throwing a basket followed by two excellent throws by Dollahan and Ortt and one by Curran. Haley made two free throws. Ackert for the N. side started by making one free throw. During this half Referee Bailey gave the north side two points and the south side one because of the roughness and because the crowd insisted on going over the line. Ortt and Curran were the stars for the south side and Ackert and Bates for the north side. The half ended with the south side leading by a score of 12-3.

Second Half.

After ten minutes' rest the boys came back with lots of pep and vigor. When the whistle blew the south side was off on the run. This half was the most exciting for the south siders, as their team had a winning streak. Haley started out with two field throws, followed by Ortt, Curran 2 and Dollahan 1.

Curran made an excellent throw on the run from the middle of the floor. Many other fine throws were made. Haley made 2 free throws. For the north side Bates made 2 field throws and Sterling made three field throws. During the second half Haley and Sterling were put out for slugging, but with clever arguing by Mr.
Homrich and Dollahan they were reinstated. Church was taken out and Schrock took his place. The game ended with the score 30-10 in favor of the south side.

The rooting by the north side students led by Church was excellent and they are to be praised for their spirit although defeated. The south side students seem to have colds for they were very weak with the school spirit.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular meeting of the city council will be held Monday morning when the public improvements, costing $110,000 will be considered.

was injured in Chicago, is reported to be recovering and will be brought

Neighbor will go to Willow Creek township early next week to assist in road work.

70 men and boys, arrived at noon on their special coaches and gave the best concert of its kind ever held in Dixon, at the opera house this afternoon. They will give another concert this evening at 8:30 and the program will be entirely changed.

TEXAN KIDNAPED, ESCAPES CAPTORS

American Cuts Rope That Binds Him and Dives Into Rio Grande.

ESCAPES HAIL OF BULLETS

Gov. Colquitt Orders Ranger Force Recruited With "Men Who Can Shoot"—Rojas May Succeed Huerta.

Austin, Tex., March 21.—Following reports of new disorders along the Mexican border, including an attempt to kidnap an American citizen by five Mexicans, Gov. O. B. Colquitt ordered the ranger force recruited with "men who can shoot."

The kidnapping of an American, Charles Ballard, took place near Carizo Springs. Ballard was tied by the Mexicans and hustled across the border, according to a report made to the governor, but while the party was crossing the Rio Grande he cut the rope which held him and escaped by diving. Ballard's captors shot at him without effect several times and then fled.

Rojas May Be President.
Vera Cruz, March 21.—With the departure for Mexico City of Jose Rojas, foreign minister in Huerta's cabinet, the report became current that a suggestion was being conveyed to Washington through John Lind that Rojas become president of Mexico and that President Wilson let Rojas be a candidate at the next election.

Rebels Ready to Shell Torreón.
Constitutionalist Headquarters, Yermo, Durango, March 21.—General Villa and his army of 12,000 rebels invested the federal stronghold of Torreón. The khaki-clad column occupied the environs of the city without opposition and wheeled or dragged field pieces into position to shell the federal trenches.

General Refugio Velasco, federal commander in Torreón, has an army estimated to number 9,000 men. South and southwest of the city Velasco's position is regarded as almost impregnable by reason of mountains through which three passes run. These have been rendered almost impassable by fortifications of barbed wire entanglements. In other directions the city is reached through the desert and high hills.

"Torreón will be mine in a week," exclaimed Villa jubilantly.

TOWN GREETED OUSTED MAN

Cumberland (Md.) Reporter, Who Assailed Evils, Welcomed.

Cumberland, Md., March 21.—Harry S. Hayward, the newspaperman who left here several weeks ago because of his editorial attacks on what he considered evils in the community, a threat was made to expose his criminal record, received an enthusiastic welcome on his return. When Hayward disappeared he left a letter to the proprietor of the newspaper by whom he was employed, inclosing the anonymous threat and confessing that he had served a term in the penitentiary. He said he had tried to live down his disgrace and now that his past life was about to be bared to the public he thought he ought not to embarrass his friends. He had been pardoned by Governor Goldsborough.

A petition for Hayward's return was signed by the leading men of the city and "glad hand" committee of several hundred was formed to welcome him back to Cumberland.

FINDS NO $50,000 FUND

Senate Committee Drops Inquiry Into Alleged Lobby Pool.

Washington, March 21.—"There is no evidence here of any $50,000 fund," said Senator Overman, chairman of the senate lobby committee, at the conclusion of the committee's investigation of reports that such a sum was being used in Washington by representatives of prison labor contractors to defeat the pending Hughes bill to restrict marketing of convict-made goods. The chairman's remark, which apparently closed this latest phase of the committee's inquiries, was addressed to Edward Boyle, Chicago attorney and formerly treasurer of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections. Mr. Boyle told the committee that he had been done an injustice by the intimations as to lobbying, and asked that a full investigation be made.

TERRIBLE ITCHING OF SKIN TROUBLE

Small Red and Yellow Spots on Leg. Covered with Dry Scale. Had to Walk Floor Nights. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

R. F. D. No. 3, Clarkfield, Minn.—"My trouble was of long standing. It started with some small red and yellow spots about the size of a pin head on my leg and every morning there was a dry scale on top covering the affected part and when those scales were falling off the itching was more than I could stand at times. The first year I did not mind it so much as it was only itching very badly at times, but the second year it advanced all around my leg and the itching was terrible. I had to be very careful to have my clothing around the affected part very loose. At night time I often happened to scratch the sore in my sleep. Then I had to stand up, get out of bed and walk the floor.

"Then I read the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I wrote for a sample and got it. To my surprise I was feeling relief after the second application. So I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a fifty-cent box of Cuticura Ointment and when I had used them I was nearly over the itching. So I got another box and that healed it all up so I felt good and fine, but I kept on with the Cuticura Soap for six weeks and the cure was complete." (Signed) S. O. Gordon, Nov. 20, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Cheese From Trees.

A German traveler reports that the negroes of the Kamerun country, in Africa, make a cheese of which they are very fond from the seeds of a tree known as Treculia Africana. They cook the seeds, and then shell and crush them into a semiliquid mass. After flavoring the mass with pepper, and pouring off the liquid, they mold it into cakes of a grayish-white color that at first do not taste at all like cheese. The pembe, as the natives call the stuff, has to ripen just like ordinary cheese. To this end, the natives expose the cakes to the air. The color gradually changes from gray to yellow, and finally to brown. During the process the cakes smell like cheese, but later have a distinctly sour odor. When ripe, they taste like strong cheese; and, in fact, as they are formed by the same bacterial changes that give flavor to our own cheeses, it is quite correct to call this native delicacy cheese from a tree.—Youth's Companion.

Mrs. E. T. Schuler of Gadsden, Ala. is here for a visit with her father, T. H. Eustace and Mrs. Eustace Shaw.

LESSON IN FARM MARKETING

How One Producer Raised the Price and Made a Sale, Which His Competitor Lost.

Two farm wagons stood in a public market, both loaded with bags of potatoes. A woman stopped before the first.

"How much are potatoes today?" she asked.

"Ninety cents a bushel," said the owner.

"Oh, my!" exclaimed the woman. "That seems high; I paid only 60 cents for the last."

"Taters've gone up," said the grower indifferently, and the woman went over to the second wagon and asked the same question. The owner's manner was in marked contrast.

"These are the best potatoes in the market, ma'am," he said. "Let me show them to you and tell you why. In the first place, I raise the kind with small eyes, so there'll be no waste in peeling—potatoes are too high nowadays to peel away. Then I sort them by sizes. In each bag you'll find a large size for boiling, frying, and fancy shapes and a medium size for baking. The baking size cooks quickly, all done at the same time, and saves coal or gas, whichever you use. We wash all our potatoes clean at home, too. You could put one of these bags into your parlor and not soil the carpet, and you don't have to pay me for any dirt. I'm getting $1 a bushel for them."

He held her three bags.—Country Gentleman.

MADE GOOD DANCING MUSIC

Convivial Party Had Reasons for Desiring Further Rendering of "Watch on the Rhine."

The following story comes from Germany, and pretends to recite facts—only facts. Diagonally across the street from my lodging, says the teller of it, there is a restaurant, which has two dining-rooms set side by side, both very much frequented of a Sunday evening. One room is the chosen resort of the Society for the Encouragement of Patriotic Music. The other room is used by the Candy-makers' Social club. Last Sunday the musical society gave a concert in its room, while the confectioners had a ladies' evening in theirs. Naturally the patriotic musicians rendered the "Watch on the Rhine"—without the least suspicion that in the next room the gentlemen confectioners and their ladies were dancing to the music thus provided gratis.

When the patriots had done "The Watch on the Rhine" twice over to their entire satisfaction there was a pause. Then the door—the door leading into the next room—popped open and one of the confectioners—an enthusiastic dancer—poked in his head. "Play that bully two-step once again for us, please," he cried.—New York Saturday Post.

EXERCISE IN THE FRESH AIR

No Doctor's Prescription So Valuable as This Simple and Pleasant Occupation.

When health is the great desideratum one should not hesitate to make almost any sacrifice to obtain it. This was well illustrated by the man who recently double-crossed the continent in 322 days. At the time of his leaving on this journey afoot he was threatened with consumption. He realized that fresh air, exercise and sunshine formed the perfect trinity that spells health. He started on that long tramp expecting health as the result. Did he get it? Sure. One gets what he expects—not merely what he hopes for; not merely what he desires, but he must expect to get that for which he hopes and desires; then lay hold of the means, as did this man, whereby the object may be obtained and then retained. He is, as the result of his effort, in the "pink of condition." He weighed 104 pounds at the start, 140 pounds at the finish—and placed a good round thousand to his credit. Best of all, he walked away from disease. Go, thou, and do likewise.

THE MEN WOMEN LIKE.

"Why did she love him?
Curlous fool, he still!
Is human love the growth of human will?"

The young maid in her teens is easily suited. Almost any young fellow who wears a natty suit, tan shoes, and a red necktie looks good in her eyes.

It does not matter whether he is a bashful youth, or has a gift of gab, she thinks him manly perfection. When she has merged from her teens, and is swinging aloft in her early twenties, the youth of other days who has kept pace with her no longer appeals to her, for her conception of the "one man" has changed.

She likes the man who has begun a career; a young man who talks of most anything else besides football and college days; who is just at that age when he is a trifle indifferent as to whether he makes an impression or not. The woman who has reached thirty appreciates the bachelor; not the flippant kind, nor yet the man about town, who is a conspicuous figure at all prominent affairs, and who is much sought after by mammas with marriageable daughters.

When she nears forty, it is the widower who appeals to her, especially if he has a little family which needs a woman's influence and care—if he has not passed the five and forty milestone on life's pathway. He is neither too young nor yet too old, not over-rich, yet well-to-do.

Tango or hesitation waltz may have no charm for him, yet he enjoys concerts, theaters and cozy little dinner parties. He appreciates sensibility in a woman, yet likes her to enjoy life and brightness. He appreciates the woman who is fond of our-of-door life, and can put on her hat and accompany him anywhere on five minutes' notice, and whom his friends' wives like to visit. This type of man suits a woman of forty in every way. When she has reached another decade of years, she likes the man ten years her senior, be he widower or bachelor. But, if an additional ten years were added to his age he would be all the more pleasing in her eyes. He would be sympathetic, companionable, content to sit by the fireside with her, and in dressing gown and slippers, recount to her the experiences of the days when Time was young with him. She likes him because he is content with her only, her ways, her dress.

MAKE YOUNG GIRLS' LIVES HAPPY.

"Soft is the breath of a maiden's Yes;
Not the light gossamer stir with less;
But never a cable that holds so fast
Through all the battles of wave and blast."

There's many a woman who looks out discontentedly upon a heavy snowfall, wondering how she shall amuse herself on so dismal a day. Let me suggest a merry idea. If she is living in a country town, and is well-to-do, why not plan to give the young girls of the place the time of their lives? By night the snow will be packed down hard. She has a couple of old wagons in the barn which could be put on runners, and there's plenty of horses in the stable, neighing and whinnying their eagerness for a dash down the road. Why not send her chore boy around to the shops and mills and invite the tired girls returning home from work to a straw ride an hour or so later?

They are informed they need not bother about eating much dinner at home; their hostess will attend to that. What poor little girls to whom a sleighride is a luxury she has often dreamed of, but never experienced, would not clap her hands and fairly scream with joy at such an invitation? Of course, there would have to be plenty of young men invited to make it jolly for the girls. What young fellow with bounding red blood in his veins would refuse a straw ride, the first sleighride of the season, especially if his best girl was to go along?

There's magic in the dainty white carpet that covers hill and dell. Even the man in the moon—who might be called a full brother to Eve when it concerns curiosity, peeps out from behind a cloud to see what it's all about—the laughter of maidens, the shouts of exuberant young fellows and the joyous jingle of the bells. Of course somebody strikes up a tune. The girls all know the song, and the welkin rings with their glad young voices trolling out the songs which always appeal to young hearts.

Those who only know the tune make up words to suit the occasion, provoking continuous bursts of laughter from the merry crowd. And oh! what appetites they have when the sandwiches, doughnuts, gingerbread and apples are passed around. When they stop at their hostess' door to say goodnight a cup of steaming coffee awaits them. It makes the good lady's heart glow in her bosom to listen to the thanks they pour forth, and the blessings they heap upon her for giving them the most glorious time that they ever had in their lonely young lives.

What a world of happiness well-to-do women upon whose hands time hangs heavily could scatter through the paths of young girls who are bread-winners and have few of life's pleasures! In winter time young girls who have no one interested in them to escort them about usually have dreary evenings.

Why don't the fortunate young matrons get together and plan a series of amusements for working girls, always extending invitations as well to nice young men to meet them—young men who are thrifty and would make good husbands; those who admit they wouldn't object to marrying if they could find the right kind of a girl? It takes a popular matron to start such a ball rolling. She must get her women friends interested and they, in turn, will do their share. What a boon to employed lads and lassies! Winter evenings would have no terrors for them. There would always be some joyous prospect to look forward to. Girls have but one youth-time. If you know any girl whose life is lonely, try to make it happy for her.

NOT SURE OF HIM.

"Love is such a mystery,
I cannot find it out;
For when I think I'm best beloved
I then am most in doubt."

The cleverest girls are those who blunder most in their love affairs. The girl who is not so alert is apt to believe that all a young man tells her is the gospel truth. With the clever girl, it's his actions, not his words, that count; though he may tell her that she is his ideal in one breath and ask carelessly in the next who the girl was he met her with yesterday.

She is shrewd enough not to put credence in the "ideal" remark nor is she quite sure of him. As for that matter, no woman is quite sure of a man until she steps to the altar with him. Many a girl thinks because she is engaged that she is privileged to say just what she pleases to him. She pouts over this and scolds over that, quite willing that he should coax her into good humor. There is a limit, however, to the patience of the best of men. When he has reached that stage, he might balk over the merest trifle. The upshot of the matter is they agree to disagree and go their separate ways. Nor can the wife of a man's bosom expect to continue to scatter her husband's opinions at all times to the winds and to do as she pleases. The best of husbands will rebel once in a while. One can never be positive as to what a man will really do under different circumstances.

Even a mother is not quite sure of what her own son will do. She may be intensely anxious that he shall marry some daughter in the social set in which she moves. He may lose his heart to the pretty shopgirl who sells him gloves and marry her after the short whirlwind courtship. A father may work all of his life and scrape and save in building up a business. The hope which he hugs to his bosom for years is that he is laying a foundation of his boy's future career; that he will take the reins out of his hands when he is ready to lay them down.

"The best laid plans of mice and men Gang aft aglee."

No parent can be sure of even his own son. "That kind of a life wouldn't suit me," declares the boy. "I'll have none of it. It's too slow! An aeroplane for me and the life that goes with it!" The girl who has overconfidence in her best fellow, asking him to escort home this girl friend or that one when they happen to call upon her, often sends forth her ship of love upon a treacherous sea. If the lover, like the ship, returns to her no more, she has learned her lesson; after that experience, she lets her women friends find their own escorts.

No sweetheart can be too sure of holding even the most faithful of lovers. If he finds her continually dull his thoughts may turn slowly to some other girl whom he knows that is always bright, who has a glad welcome for him.

In the other girl's presence, time flits by on golden wings. No woman can sit down and worry over the possible chance of losing a man or let him know that she does not feel sure of him. If she is bright, of happy disposition, cultivating a charming personality is gentle, and a chum in truth, always ready to go here and there with him, entering heart and soul into the sports he likes, she may feel that she has a better chance, the world over, in holding his heart against all comers who might be possible rivals. Every man has one soft, little warm spot in his heart if only woman could reach it. If two hearts are not wholly agreed, the woman cannot be sure of him. No woman should be disheartened because she cannot influence one particular man. Their natures evidently do not harmonize. They would never be wholly satisfied with each other were their acquaintance to end in matrimony.

The woman for whom a man would give his last dollar, are the last drop of blood in his heart, is the only being who would be sure of him.

This advice holds good for both sweetheart, or wife. A man might change every seven years, but he is supposed to renew his lease on love as it entered his heart for a tenancy for life. There never was a heart created but another heart was made for it. These and these only are sure of each other.

DEMENTTOWN

Today being the first official day of spring the thoughts of the young are supposed to turn toward poetry and love. However, this col. determinedly draws the line at spring poetry.

Wonder if there will be a refrigerator car at the rear of that "wet" train that's going to make a trip over the state.

It will soon be time to begin to beat down the grass by tramping cross lots instead of sticking to the sidewalk.

There are times when we wish it were lawful to carry a revolver. One of them is when a fellow at the theatre insists on telling you all about the next act.

What a dandy fine world it would be if it were just as easy to make a good thing better as it is to make a bad matter worse.

Every time we see the term "jail birds," we wonder if they are raised by larks, bats and swallows.

A man in Chicago was arrested for stealing peanuts and bananas from a fruit stand. He was charged with impersonating an officer and sentenced accordingly.

Senator Jensen pulled a real fine one yesterday when he asked a fellow who was smoking cubels is those were "disinfected cigarets." Doubtless he drew his conclusion from the odor of the smoke.

Pace That Kills.

"I was readin' the other day," began the genial farmer, as he seated himself comfortably in the office of the Basswood Corners Hustler, "an article on metropolitan journalism. The writer says that there is such an intense strain on everybody connected with it that they all get old before they're forty. There's so much hurry, activity and hard work, you know. And I suppose that is a characteristic of running a newspaper anywhere."

"You're right, Mr. Reubenjay," replied the successful editor. "We are compelled to do prodigious tasks in the briefest possible time. Now, only yesterday I had to change two double-column ads., write one obituary and two wedding notices and carry two cords of stove-wood upstairs."—Puck.

FIGHTING MEXICO FROM BEHIND THE STOVE.
President Wilson may fool us yet. There are a lot of valiant patriots who hitch cracker boxes up to the grocery store stove every evening and beside paying off the government debt and revising the constitution of the United States, they complain about Dr. Wilson's suppression of their mad desire to dash into Mexico and trounce the daylight out of every greaser in Mexico. A lot of these fellows' wives take in washing.

Of course we have the nation's honor to sustain, and no affront to the government of the United States can be passed lightly, but this idea of going to war with Mexico strikes us a good deal like a big healthy man running down the boy who knocks off his hat with a showball and beating the little devil into a pulp. The big fellow has it in his heart to do it just at the moment, and his amused (?) grin cost a terrific effort, but his already wounded dignity would not be saved one whit if he started tearing down the street after the flying urchin.

The conquering of Mexico by Uncle Sam would not be such a task, but it would be a long-winded chase and an expensive one, and little to be gained at the goal. A few regiments of our boys could tramp from one end of the miserable republic to the other, seize the capital and every important city, but the Mexicans would be no more conquered than the American Indians were for centuries after this nation was owned by us. Deaths of Americans would be just as frequent then as now, and a big number of brave American boys would be sacrificed to avenge the losses which are now minute in comparison.

A war with Mexico would unite the warring factions now flying at each other's throats there, but it would only unite them against us, and then only so long as a common enemy confronts them. The nature of the Mexican is the cause of the trouble that exists down there now and has existed there since time began, and a few months' campaign with an American army won't change their natures. It will take the education of many generations to do that.

The United States, if it mixes in the mess at all, must eventually own Mexico; otherwise it is a good problem to let alone. If these blood-thirsty war promoters were the only ones allowed to enlist in the army to fight Mexico, Pancho Villa's horse wranglers could stand off the army. That costly and useless war with Spain would never have been fought if President William McKinley had been allowed to manage the affair in his own way.

WINDOW BOXES DOWNTOWN.
It is getting to be the fashion in many cities to have window boxes of flowers and small shrubs in downtown office and store buildings, and the practice does much toward beautifying the business streets. Minneapolis is a noted example of what can be done by owners and occupants of business blocks. Even the boulevard lights in that city are adorned with growing flowers, ferns, etc., and the effect is extremely pleasing. Some local woman's organization, if they will take the trouble to interview and interest Dixon business men, can accomplish a good thing for Dixon. Any touch that lends color and attractiveness to a city is an advantage. It pleases visitors and gives them a better impression, and it stirs the patriotism of its citizens and infuses a spirit of keener civic pride.

WHY DON'T WE ADVERTISE IT?
When we were making our bid for the state epileptic hospital did we declare as one of the features of the good points of Dixon, that we have no garbage removal system here? No, that's one thing we forgot to mention.
The fact that there is no city system for the removal and incineration of refuse does not appear on the letterhead of the Citizens' Association either.
Can it be that we are not proud of the fact? It seems a shame that when this is perhaps one city in a thousand that is noteworthy because of its absolute innocence from any hint of such a thing that we do not advertise it.
It is a record that is unique. What city that pretends to amount to anything can truthfully claim to be in the same condition?

Never in its history has the Telegraph had as big, healthy and loyal circulation as it has right now. The advertising patronage has never been as large as it is today, and the past few years have been banner ones for this paper, with a steadily climbing list of steadfast friends. Why do people of Dixon and Lee county pay their good money to get the Telegraph and why do the good business men of Dixon and the world at large spend big sums in our advertising columns? The answer to the first question is quite plainly that nowhere in this territory can intelligent, critical and discriminating readers find a paper that compares with the Telegraph from the reader's point of view; and as for the second, it is obvious that the class of people whom the honest advertiser wants to reach are the Telegraph readers, and furthermore, both foreign and local advertisers must be getting a good return on the money they invest with us or they would not keep on spending large sums of money each year on Telegraph advertising. The moral is:
When you want to read something worth while, read the Telegraph, and when you want to advertise and get results, advertise in the Telegraph.

Tragedy in Women's Hats.
There is a tragedy in every woman's hat. It seems almost as cruel to pay girls who make the dainty flowers in France a pittance as to kill the birds of brilliant plumage in Brazil. Thirty cents a day, 20 and 15, with an occasional 75 for rare skill in making roses, deducting for loss of time and slack work, tells the story of wretchedness and woe. Summed up the average is not far from $60 a year on which to support existence. American lovers of French millinery will be amazed at the wages paid young women in France gifted with deft fingers and rare taste, especially when they take the prices charged for Parisian hats into consideration.

Chinese Soldiers Are Good Fighters.
Till within the last two years or so, the general impression was that the Chinese soldier was intended to run away. The revolution of 1911 dissipated some of this absurdity. The events of the present year have dispersed the remainder. It is now recognized that there is no finer material than that which could be selected from among the sturdier of China's sons. Nothing is wanted but training, arms of precision, good leading and a good cause. With these, China could well hold its own. The improvements that have been made during recent years in such things can be appreciated only by those who know what the old troops, from the Bannermen downward, were like.—National Review, China.

Saturday
By WALT MASON
To Saturday it would be hard to hand too much of honest praise; it certainly inspires the bard to put up fifty-seven lays.
All days are sick, when rightly viewed, with optimistic heart and eyes, but Saturday seems like a dude among a bunch of hayseed guys. It is the best of all the days, it sees the long week's labors done; the workers go their homeward ways, each man lopsided with his mon. There's nothing makes us more serene than knowing we have bravely wrought to earn the package of long green which to the kids and wives we've brought.
And when the week end whistles blow, announce-ing now a day of rest, what peace and comfort do we know, who faced our task and did our best! Then the long night of perfect rest, and Sunday sees us at the kirk, to hear about a country blest, the home of those who pray and work. So let us work, and let us pray, and do the thing that's to our hand, and when is gone life's fleeting day, we'll caper to the Happy Land.

LOOK FOR THE SPRING
HUNTERS.
G. W. Clark, one of the two federal game wardens working in this state, will visit this vicinity according to word received by District Warden Clavin. The men will look into the spring shooting cases reported in this section of the state and it is likely that some of the fellows who have been enjoying mallards and big Canada geese will be asked to appear before a United States court and pay for the luxury.

The local authorities have no authority to arrest the violators of the federal statutes prohibiting the spring shooting who have been instructed to secure evidence which they will turn over to Uncle Sam's prosecutors.

BEANS ARE PROFITABLE CROP
Soil Must Be in Good State of Productiveness to Grow Any Kind of Crop—Good in Rotation.

The old-fashioned saying that land is too poor to grow a good crop of white beans has been the cause of many farmers giving up bean growing.
It is a mistake to imagine any soil will grow a good crop of beans or anything else unless it is in a good state of productiveness.

From our own experience we are convinced that beans are one of the best cash or market crops that a farmer can grow for they are a cash crop that will always bring a fair price and find ready sale in all sections of the country.

They are an easy crop on the soil and beans, wheat and clover and make one of the best and most profitable rotations than can be planned out on any farm, especially where a limited amount of manure is available.

Preparing for Young Pigs.
Know the date when your sows are due to farrow, set it down as something important, then be on the ground on that date, not to fuss and cause disturbance, but quietly to watch and right things if anything needs righting. You may save more money indirectly through this watchfulness than by any other thing in dealing with hogs.

Keeping Apples.
A good way to keep apples is to pack them in forest leaves. Place a good layer of leaves first, then a layer of apples and so alternate till the barrel is full. The leaves soak up any moisture that may run from decaying fruit. Keep in a cool place.

French Oyster Beds Threatened.
Portuguese oysters, which, according to zoologists, do not even belong to the properly called species of oysters, but to the gryphaea species, are threatening to invade the French oyster beds, and inasmuch as they are not the edible dish which the French oyster makes there is regret at the prospect. The more robust Portuguese oysters some time ago supplanted the native oysters in the region of Arca-chon and are likewise attacking the Marennes oysters that are so highly appreciated. At first it was thought the danger was limited, as it was believed the southern gryphaea could not become acclimatized on the Brittany coasts. Now, however, it has been shown that the Portuguese oysters can very well live on the Brittany coasts and they are threatening to gradually take the place of the oyster of Caudec that have a much better taste and are more appreciated.

Sherlock Holmes on Love.
Doctor Watson has just told Sherlock Holmes of his impending marriage, and having received the great detective's good wishes, he says,
"Thank you, Holmes! Some of these days, I hope, I shall be congratulating you!"
Holmes—No marriage without love, Watson!
Watson—Then, why not love?
Holmes—Absurd, Watson! Absurd!
I am not for love, nor love for me!
It would disturb my reason—unbalance my faculties! Love is like a flaw in the crystal, sand in the clockwork, iron near the magnet! No!
No! I have other work in the world!

LIVE ON FISH THEY CATCH
Stranger Than Fiction.
"By the way," said the romancer of the smoking-room the other day, "I don't think I ever told you of a curious incident that once befell me. I was staying in the country, and one afternoon while out for a walk I rested on a wayside bank. On rising I discovered that a sovereign had dropped out of my pocket. In vain I searched everywhere; no trace of the coin could I discover. A year later I happened to be in the same district again, and during the course of a ramble found myself on the spot where I had lost the sovereign. I clambered up the bank to pick some flowers, but it gave way under me and sent me to the bottom. On picking myself up what do you think I found?"
"The sovereign!" was the unanimous reply.
"Wrong! I found a guinea. You see, the sovereign had been in the bank a year, and had accumulated interest at the rate of five per cent."—

Remarkable Breed of "Banker Ponies" Natives of the Coast of North Carolina.
On the coast of North Carolina there are several miles of low, sandy shore where nothing grows except a coarse grass, a few salt water weeds and wild parsley. On these banks lives a strange breed of half-wild horses known as "banker ponies." These creatures are generally about twice the size of Sher-hand ponies. Every year the herd owners drive the "bankers" into pens, brand the foals with the proper mark,
and catch some of the older animals
to sell to the dealers.
North Carolinians say that the beasts must be starved into eating grain, hay or grass, for they have always lived on the rank salt marsh grass of the marshes and on fish. They catch the fish for themselves at low tide; with their hoofs they dig deep holes in the sand below high-water mark, and when the tide falls they greedily devour the fish that are stranded in these holes.
Often they fight briskly over an especially tempting morsel.
In captivity these strange horses are intelligent, but seldom are even in temper. Once tamed, they make excellent draft animals, for they have a strength that is disproportionate to their size. Foals that are bred from "bankers" in captivity make valuable animals—strong and intelligent.

Could Not Enforce Uniform.
In 1868 the formation was attempted in London of a league of housewives pledged to engage only servants who would undertake to wear a uniform.
In the preliminary manifesto it was also proposed to prohibit servants from wearing "superfluities, such as flowers, feathers, brooches, buckles or clasps, earrings, lockets, neck ribbons,
and velvets, kid gloves, sashes, jackets, Garibaldi, trimmings on dresses, crinolines or steel of any kind. "On her Sunday out a servant was to assume "a neat alpaca dress, linen collars and cuffs, black apron, black shawl, straw bonnet bound round with ribbons, thread or cotton gloves, small cotton umbrella to keep off the sun and rain." The costume was to be diversified in cold weather by a lin-

Skoglund and Beyer started down the railroad track for the lone man they had observed. On the way Beyer took out his revolver and examined each chamber to make sure it was loaded. Then he "broke" the gun and took out all the cartridges

LOPEZ CHILDREN.

The three children are seen standing at the door of their bunk car to witness the departure of their father as he was taken away by the officers. They are now being cared for at the Bureau county poor farm.

TUESDAY, MARCH 17.

5:15 p. m.—Jose Rodriguez, injured Mexican, dies in Spring Valley hospital.

The above summary of the past week marks the progress of the first steps to bring to justice the murders of Engineer Fisher of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, who was shot to death in the cab of his engine a week ago Friday morning by four Mexicans who

and closed the gun and snapped the trigger to make sure it was in good operating condition. When assured of this he reloaded the gun.

Lines Up Men at Bunk Car.

Skoglund and Beyer went to the north end of the bunk car and rapped on the door to arouse the inmates. He said he wanted them to line up on the outside of the car so he could look them over. Six men came out and stood in a line at the northeast shot was fired apparently coming from the bunk car. A ball struck Skoglund in the left wrist, coming out in the palm of the hand.

Skoglund pulled down the guard of the rifle to throw out the defu-

Rodriguez pushed by Lopez shot Skoglund in the face and by the time he reached the outside of the car Skoglund held the rifle in his left hand and with his right hand pulled out a revolver and fired three times at Rodriguez. One shot missed but two others took effect. One ball entered on his left side and he veered to the east the next entered his right side and veered to the west.

Leslie Beyer then opened up on Rodriguez and shot him five times while he was doing so, Juan Vargo emerged from the bunk car and opened fire on Beyer. One shot passed through his thigh. Another passed through the edge of his sweater and others through his trousers. Beyer turned and shot Vargo the ball lodging in his hip. Both of the wounded Mexicans continued in their flight. Rodriguez went in the direction of the elevator and Vargo started down the railroad tracks. Skoglund followed as far as the elevator when he felt compelled to give up the chase.

had been apprehended breaking into a car of merchandise.

The details of the brutal cold blooded murder of the engineer and the man hunt which followed are fresh in the minds of the readers of the Telegraph; however the story of the fight at Langley, in which Deputy Skoglund was seriously injured is a most thrilling narrative as told by witnesses. After receiving orders from Sheriff Beyers, Skoglund and Leslie Beyers, son of the sheriff headed for Langley and as they drew near to the Langley station Skoglund noticed a man corner of the bunk car. To these he added Ledezma whom they had arrested up the track. Skoglund asked the men if there were any others around there and little Ed Soto gave Skoglund a cue by motioning with his thumb to the south end of the bunk car. Skoglund placed the men in line in charge of Beyer and went to the south door of the car.

The Shooting Starts.

At the south door of the car Skoglund heard voices and he called to them to come out. Lopez opened the door and as he stood in the doorway Skoglund noticed a head peering at him from the right side of Lopez.

PROVIDING GOOD SHELTER FOR THE HOGS

A Portable A-Shaped Hog House, With Chains and Singletree for Hauling.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The accompanying cut, showing a portable A-shaped hog house, with chain and singletree for hauling, can be built very easily and cheaply, states farmers' bulletin 566. It is constructed of 1 by 12 inch plank, with cracks covered with battens. It is open in front and should be placed facing the south. The floor is 8 feet wide and 6 feet from front to back, and is nailed to three runners or skids. The skids may be made of lumber or poles about 6 inches in diameter and flattened on one side, to which the floor is nailed. A large pole can be bored through the front end of the outer skids so that a chain can be fastened to them to facilitate moving the house by the use of a team. A piece of 2 by 4 inch material is nailed on the outer edges of the top of floor to prevent the house from spreading at the bottom.

Each side of the house is made of six pieces of 1 by 12 inch plank 8 feet long, nailed to a piece of 2 by 4 lying flat about 9 inches from the top of the plank, another about 3 1/2 feet from the top, and a piece of 2 by 8 nailed edgewise about 11 inches from the bottom. This should be braced at each end of the underside by a right-angle block of 2 by 8 inch material nailed to the rail and to the side of the house. The long piece of 2 by 8 will act as a guard under which the young pigs may take shelter when the sow lies down. This will save many pigs from being crushed to death.

The back of the house fits between the two sides in a groove made by nailing two pieces of 1 by 1/2-inch material lengthwise on the inner side of each side of the house. The house is then "set up" on the floor and the sides held together by nailing a short piece of 1 by 6-inch plank across the front and back of the house about one and one-half feet below the top. This will prevent it from being blown down by the wind or a storm. A saddle board made by nailing two pieces of 1 by 6-inch plank together can then be put over the ridge of the house to keep out rain.

A house built thus can be moved on the skids or can be taken down by removing the 1 by 6-inch brace from the front and the back of the house. If the house is located in an open field, where there is danger of heavy winds, a guy wire should be securely fastened to a stake driven deep into the ground. This is a precaution which will justify the trouble required, as it may save a litter of pigs from being crushed in case of a storm. Such a house can be constructed without the "take-down" feature, and by securely nailing it will not need the guy wire. Some dirt may be thrown up at the front of the house to the level of the floor so that young pigs may enter without trouble. The material necessary to build this house is as follows:

Thirteen pieces 1 by 12-inch by 16 feet for sides, back and floor of house. Nine pieces 16-foot battens.

Three pieces 2 by 4-inch by 12 feet for framework.

Two pieces 2 by 8-inch by 12 feet for pig rail or guard.

One piece 1 by 6-inch by 16 feet for saddle board.

Three poles for skids.

Nails.

Total, 272 board feet of lumber, 144 linear feet of batten, three poles and the nails. As rough lumber suitable for the construction of such a house can usually be secured for about $12 per 1,000 in the south, the material will cost about five dollars. This type of house is suitable for practically all parts of the south, as no extremely cold weather is experienced and the open front permits sunshine to enter the house for several hours each day.

In case a boy cannot obtain material to build such a house as has just been described, he should get whatever material is available on the farm and build a shelter for his hogs. It can be made out of waste planks, for any shelter that will protect the hogs from cold winds and rain and give them a dry bed, at the same time permitting the sun to shine in during a portion of the day, will be quite an improvement over conditions existing on so many farms at present.

A shelter to be used during the summer months may be made by setting four poles or posts into the ground and securely nailing 2 by 6-inch material around these about three feet from the ground; upon these a few light poles may be put cross-wise and straw or coarse hay piled on top. The straw should be piled higher in the middle than at the edges and smoothed down so the rain will run off. This will furnish shade during the greater part of the day. No shelter should be built where water can run under it from the surrounding ground.

How to Figure Costs in Feeding Live Stock.

The grain and other feeds grown on the farm where they are fed should be charged to stock at the market value at the farm, minus the cost of hauling. This is the result of seven years' experience in studying farm cost accounting problems in the section of farm economics of the department of agriculture.

The object of cost accounting is to show an analysis of the entire farm business; and the relative profitability of each enterprise, as well as the relative costs, should be made clear. If the farmer is to learn the truth about the cost of his corn, oats, hay and other feedable products, he must do considerable figuring and have a good understanding of farm cost accounting methods. On the other hand, the market values of grains and other feedable products serve as a common standard from which any farmer may easily figure the cost of feeding them to live stock. The market price at the farm is the only logical, as well as the easiest, method to follow. If live stock are essential for profitable farming in so many sections, why should the live stock enthusiasts figure to eliminate the profits of crop growing, so that the live stock may appear more profitable?

Weed Growth and Corn Yields.

Of the various factors that influence corn yields there are some that receive more than their share of attention, and some to which sufficient emphasis has not been given. Important as is the type of soil, the weather, fertilizer treatment, variety, condition of the seed, insect and fungus troubles, preparation of the seed bed, and subsequent tillage, it would seem that under conditions anywhere near normal there are two other factors that exert a great deal more influence on yields than any of those named above. These are the organic matter content of the soil and the amount of weed growth.

The significance of these two factors cannot be emphasized too strongly. As illustrative of the importance of organic matter may be cited the practices of a Georgia farmer. This farmer has a two-year rotation of cotton and corn, 75 acres of each every year. For each crop a stand of bur clover is turned under. A strip between the cotton rows is left unbroken until the bur clover seed matures. The corn crop is planted without plowing. The rows are run out with a middle buster, the seed dropped by hand, and covered with a double shovel. About three weeks later, when the bur clover has entirely covered the corn row, the first cultivation is given by plowing under the clover with a turning plow. The next cultivation is with a five-shovel surface cultivator. Just before the third and last cultivation the land is broadcasted to cowpeas and sorghum for hay. The land is never plowed, or cultivated to a greater depth than three inches. Crude as these tillage practices may seem, they accomplish the two-fold purpose of turning under large amounts of organic matter and keeping down weed growth. Under this system the yield of cotton has been increased from one-third of a bale per acre to one and one-half bales, and the yield of corn has been built up in like proportion.

The second great factor—weed growth—hardly needs any discussion. Nearly everybody has seen thousands of acres of high weeds and low crops. It was at one time preached by our best known agriculturists that weeds were a good thing because they spurred the lazy husbandman on to greater activity in his tillage operations; in other words tillage was being merely incidental. In our recent work on corn cultivation it has been clearly shown that in the main weeds are the arch enemy that makes inter-cultural tillage necessary.

Legume Crops.

The United States department of agriculture is authority for the statement that among various causes that have led to the abandonment of land once cultivated there is no doubt that the greatest single cause has been the failure to utilize legume crops. Without the rational use of legumes in a rotation, the depletion of nitrogen and the consequent falling off in productivity is certain to occur.

Let the colt have shelter from storm, but let him have access to pasture also.

THEN.....AND.....NOW

(By Associated Press.) Sixteen years ago this month the battleship Oregon began the most remarkable long distance race against time in all naval history. On that date in 1898 it left San Francisco to join the warships in Atlantic waters. There was an effort to surround the Oregon's movements with secrecy, but everybody guessed her mission and bets were made on the success of the trip. Tension relaxed for a time after the Oregon appeared at Callao, Peru, her first stop, but it became the more acute as she steamed southward toward the Straits of Magellan where a Spanish torpedo boat lurked and tempestuous seas made the passing of the straits hazardous. After 33 days out of San Francisco the Oregon dashed into the Atlantic and up the coast, evading the Spanish warships reported lying in wait for her. On the evening of May 24th she steamed into Jupiter Bay, having covered the 14,000 mile trip in 67 days. The record trip made her commander, the now Rear Admiral Charles E. Clark, retired, a national hero.

Today the Oregon's trip may be recorded safely as the only one and the last of its kind. No other warship is likely to be called upon to make the circuit of South America. Before another war can come to pass, the gate way of the oceans will have been opened at Panama. Then a modern battleship steaming at the same rate as the Oregon, might make the trip to Jupiter Bay, Florida, from San Francisco in less than twenty days. She would not suffer for want of coal, as did the Oregon. She would need to refill her bunkers but once, and this while passing through the canal. During the 8 to 12 hours passage of the Isthmus the engineers could repair or overhaul her machinery, and barnacles, the bane of high speed, would be cleaned. Thus refreshed the battleship could dash across the Gulf of Mexico and into battleline well stocked with fuel and ammunition.

LEARN WHAT THE EARTH IS

The earth is a ball, so situated in a region called space as to get the full benefit of the sun on bright days and of the moon on romantic nights. It is somewhat larger than a baseball, but not so important. It is not so large as a fixed star, but is much closer and of a much pleasanter climate. It is not so flashy as a charity ball, but much more efficient.

It has two poles of which we are certain, because they are vouched for by explorers; a center of which we are not certain because it is vouched for merely by scientists; an equator and an axis which are imaginary; Christian Scientists, which are imaginative; and mathematicians, which are unimaginative. It is inhabited by people, husbands and other insects, animalculae and bacteria. It is connected with the rest of space by sound waves, light waves, wireless apparatus with instruments at the sending end only, telescopes and prayers. It has recently endeavored to exaggerate its ego by the use of aeroplanes.

The earth is highly recommended as both a summer and a winter resort for well-to-do persons. Favorable terms to desirable parties.—Pulitzer's Magazine.

Now, Mr. or Mrs. Dyspeptic, jot this down Pape's Diapepsin digests everything leaving nothing in the sour and upset you. There never was anything so safely quick, so certainly effective. No difference how badly your stomach is disordered, you will get happy relief in five minutes, but what pleases most is that it strengthens and regulates your stomach so you can eat your favorite foods without fear.

Most remedies give you relief sometimes—they are slow, but not sure. "Pape's Diapepsin" is quick, positive and puts your stomach in a healthy condition so the misery won't come back.

You feel different as soon as "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach—distress just vanishes—your stomach gets sweet, no gases, no bleaching, no eructations of undigested food, your head clears and you feel fine.

Go now, make the best investment you ever made, by getting a large, fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder.

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Grandma's recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur darkens so naturally that nobody can tell.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Drink lots of water and stop eating meat for a while if your bladder troubles you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

"Involuntary Suicide." A highly respected and prosperous Georgia farmer discovered that his corn cribs showed signs of nocturnal depletion. As this occurred with considerable regularity, his suspicions became aroused, and he rigged a spring-gun and watcher for results.

The first night following, along in the small hours, he heard the report of a gun, and hastening to the spot, found a "dead nigger." The next morning he notified the coroner, which official summoned a jury and proceeded to view the remains. After a full investigation of the case, the coroner gazed solemnly at the jury and remarked that, while he was not entirely aware of the conclusions reached by them, he would suggest a verdict of "involuntary suicide." And that was the verdict.

Bad Misunderstanding.

When Uncle Joe Cannon was in congress he wrote a letter to a fellow-member, who was able to decipher the hieroglyphics with the exception of one word. He disliked to bother Mr. Cannon, so he went to several friends among the congressmen, but none of them could make out the word in question. This word seemed very important, as it was underlined, so at last in despair the recipient thought he would consult Mr. Cannon himself. Cannon looked at the letter, and then again at the letter, his face somewhat taking on a peculiar expression. Finally he looked at the congressman and with mingled anger and laughter, said: "Why, you fool, that word is 'confidential.'"

BLAME PUT ON MONIS

Prosecutor and Judge Believe Ex-Premier Halted Trial.

Funeral of M. Calmette Held and Mounted Troops Guard Against Disorder.

Paris, March 21.—Joseph Caillaux and Ernest Monis, two former premiers of France, and the chief public prosecutor of the republic, Victor Fabre, were questioned by a parliamentary committee concerning their acts and motives in hindering the trial of a banker, Henri Pochette, who is known as "the King of Swindlers," is said to have duped investors out of $3,000,000, but escaped punishment.

All sought to shift the blame, but the prosecutor and a judge agreed that Monis was responsible.

The killing of Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro, by Mme. Caillaux caused this secret page in judicial history to be reopened.

Meanwhile the funeral of M. Calmette was being held and Paris was widely excited. After the funeral a group of royalists seized and caned a man who had shouted, "Assassin Caillaux." The man sought refuge in a tobacco store and fired several revolver shots into the mob, wounding several persons. The police, however, charged and dispersed the mob. Similar episodes took place at several points.

Ex-Premiers Barthou and Briand were cheered by the crowd while returning from the funeral, but a royalist shouted, "Cheers for Caillaux." This man also was caned. When the police dispersed the mob it was found the royalist had been wounded with a pistol shot.

The funeral of M. Calmette was held at the Church of St. Francis de Sales. Squadrons of mounted republican guards, police and other military forces were out in great numbers to keep order. After a simple mass by the parish priest the body was borne to the cemetery, followed by 9,000 persons.

WIFE SUING YOUNG BELMONT

Young Woman Tells How They Planned Wedded Life.

New York, March 21.—Ethel Lorraine Belmont had to undergo a searching cross-examination when she appeared as a witness in her suit for a separation from Raymond Belmont, son of August Belmont, whom she married in November, 1912. She had met young Belmont in 1909, she said. They had discussed marriage many times and planned in detail their married life together. Mrs. Belmont declared that at the present time she had only about one thousand dollars left of a lump sum of $20,000 and other amounts that her husband had given her before her marriage. She said she had received only $50 from him since the wedding.

PRESIDENT WILSON ANALYZES HIMSELF

Executive, in Unique Talk to Journalists, Tells What Office Means to Him.

SIZE OF TASK AWESOME

Regarded as Head of Government, He Often Feels Like Saying, "It's Only Me"—Finds Pose of Dignity Irksome.

Washington, March 21.—Woodrow Wilson unbosomed himself to the members of the National Press club of Washington, telling them in a frank, conversational way how he felt as president of the United States; how difficult it was for him to imagine himself as the chief executive with the formal amenities of the position, and how he had struggled to be as free as the ordinary individual without the restraints of his office. It was an intimate picture of Woodrow Wilson—the man—drawn by himself, on the occasion of the "house warming" at the Press club's new quarters.

The president did not intend to have his remarks reported, but later, at the request of the club, the unusual speech was made public.

Can't Recognize Himself.

It was as follows: "I was just thinking of my sense of confusion of identity sometimes when I read articles about myself. I have never read an article about myself in which I recognized myself and I have come to have the impression that I must be some kind of a fraud, because I think a great many of these articles are written in absolute good faith."

"I tremble to think of the variety and falseness in the impressions I make—and it is being borne in on me so that it may change my very disposition—that I am a cold and removed person, who has a thinking machine inside which he adjusts to the circumstances and which he does not allow to be moved by any kinds of affection or emotion of any kind, but turns like a cold searchlight on anything that is presented to his attention and makes it work. I am not aware of having any detachable apparatus inside of me."

Embarrassed by Emotions.

"On the contrary, if I were to interpret myself I would say that my constant embarrassment is to restrain the emotions that are inside of me."

"Because, truly, gentlemen, in the position which I occupy there is a sort of—I do not know how else to express it than to say—passionate sense of being connected with my fellow men in a peculiar relationship of responsibility. Not merely the responsibility of office, but, God knows, there are enough things in this world that need to be corrected."

"It makes me tremble not only with a sense of my own inadequacy and weakness, but as if I were shaken by the very things that are shaking them and, if I seem circumspect, it is because I am so diligently trying not to make any colossal blunders."

Borrows Others' Brains.

"I was amused the other day at a remark that Senator Newlands made. I had read to him the trust message that I was to deliver to congress some ten days before I delivered it, and I never stop doctored things of that kind until the day I have to deliver them."

"When he heard it read to congress he said: 'I think it was better than it was when you read it to me.'"

"I said, 'Senator there is one thing which I do not think you understand. I not only use all the brains I have, but all I can borrow, and I have borrowed a lot since I read it to you first.'"

"There are blessed intervals when I forget by one means or another that I am president of the United States. One means by which I forget is to get a rattling good detective story, get after some imaginary offender and chase him all over—preferably any continent but this, because the various parts of this continent are becoming painfully suggestive to me."

Longs for Disguise.

"It would be a great pleasure if, unobserved and unattended, I could be knocked around as I have been accustomed to being knocked around all my life; if I could resort to any delightful quarter, to any place in Washington that I chose. I have sometimes thought of going to some costumer's—some theatrical costumer's—and buying an assortment of beards, rouge and coloring and all the known means of disguising myself, if it were not against the law."

"You see I have a scruple as president against breaking the law, and disguising one's self is against the law, but if I could disguise myself and not get caught I would go out, be a free American citizen once more and have a jolly time. I might then meet some of you gentlemen and actually tell you what I really thought."

ANCIENT CITY OF THE INCAS

Ruins Discovered on the Summit of the Peruvian Andes May Reveal Much of History.

Visions of departed glory are conjured by the news that the ruins of an Inca city, hitherto unknown to archaeologists, have been discovered on the summit of the Peruvian Andes. There is, perhaps, no more fascinating chapter in the history of the western hemisphere than that which deals with the remarkable civilization of this South American race.

Prof. Hiram Bingham of Yale declares the ruins to be the largest, with the one exception of Cuzco, that have yet been discovered. They derive additional interest from the fact that they have remained unoccupied since they were deserted by their original inhabitants, and may thus be counted upon to tell a story unmarred by the alterations of human design.

Archaeologists think the Cuzco valley of Peru was settled by the Incas some 300 years before Pizarro landed on the coast. It was in 1527 he first cast envious eyes upon the wealth and glory of this new world empire. He returned to Spain with his story, and made a contract to conquer the empire. He paid the price of his life to gratify his ambition, but the Inca empire fell and the glories of a great people passed when Spain took possession.

The city of Machu Picchu escaped Spain's discovery, hidden in its mountain fastness, and we await with interest the revelations its undisturbed treasures may afford. Assuredly archeology will be enriched, and there is reason to hope that art may gain by exploration of the ruins.

WHEN WELL-KNOWN DIXON PEOPLE TELL IT SO PLAINLY.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Dixon the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every sufferer of kidney backache, every man, woman or child with kidney trouble will do well to read the following:

Mrs. Emile Bott, 811 College Ave., Dixon, Ill., says: "We recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly now as we did some years ago when we first gave a statement in their praise. I was rheumatic and most of the pain was through my back and kidneys. At night I didn't sleep well and in the morning was all tired out. I was nervous and dizzy and my kidneys were out of order. I tried different remedies, but was not helped until I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Leake Bros. Co.'s Drug Store. They made me strong and well."

Might Incriminate Self—Says Money He Borrowed Is Gone—Vogel Avoids Taking Stand.

New York, March 21.—Frank E. Vogel, partner of Henry Siegel in the bankrupt firm of Henry Siegel & Co., bankers, failed to appear at the hearing before United States Commissioner Alexander Gilchrist, Jr., on the affairs of the defunct bank. His counsel announced that Vogel was ill, but professed ignorance of his whereabouts.

Mr. Gilchrist served notice that Vogel would be held in contempt of court should he fail to appear in court next Monday or submit legal proof that he was unable to do so.

Siegel refused to answer many questions concerning his assets. Asked what he did with a $150,000 personal loan from the bank, he said that a reply might incriminate him. He said he had none of this money now, but refused to say what he did with it.

Siegel admitted he carried life insurance to the amount of $85,000, most of it naming his daughter as beneficiary. Real estate valued at about $345,000 he had transferred to a member of one of his mercantile companies last August to cover the lease of one of the store buildings used by the firm. Siegel denied that his company owned property in Europe and had deposits in France.

A committee of depositors of the defunct bank attended the hearing, but the crowd was orderly. Siegel's examination will be continued next Wednesday.

"You must have a remarkably efficient board of health in this town," remarked the visitor.

"Right you are," replied the shrewd native.

"Composed of scientists, I presume?"

"No, sir. Scientists are too theoretical."

"Physicians, perhaps?"

"Not much. We don't allow doctors on our board of health—no, sir—nor undertakers, either."

"Hum! What sort of men have you chosen?"
